

Our Projects

Our holistic approach to end trafficking allows AIM to follow survivors along their road to wholeness.

By being part of prevention, rescue, restoration and reintegration, AIM is committed to life-long and community-wide transformation that is effective and lasting.

Prevent

AIM Rahab's Center

Community centers in cities known as epicenters of trafficking give hope to those who think trafficking is their only option. Our Centers serve communities through:

- Community School
- Humanitarian Aid
- Emergency Foster Care
- Kid's Club

- Medical Clinic
- Adult English Institute
- Community Church
- Brick Factory Outreach

 AIM School averages 420 students.

Sex Trafficking Prevention Course

A comprehensive curriculum that teaches communities how to prevent trafficking at home.

The Lord's Gym

Reaching the pimps and traffickers through relationships at a local gym.

Rescue

Rescue Team

AIM's SWAT Team collects and acts on intel about trafficking operations, working with Cambodian law enforcement to bring criminals to justice and victims to restoration.

 In 2014, AIM raided 10 brothels and helped 236 victims of exploitation.

AIM Restoration Home (ARH)

Comprehensive care for young rescued girls at this safe residential facility provides loving relationships and a healing program so little ones can grow whole and live victoriously.

 Average age at ARH is 12 years old.

Restore

AIM Employment Center (AEC)

Our employment facilities give rescued young women training in a skill, wages up to 400% higher than average, child-care, counseling and more to build an independent life.

AIM Transitional Home (ATH)

Safe residences offer a place where young women can move from brothels or unsafe living situations to independence.

 Nearly 300 people are employed at AEC.

Reintegrate
